

RICHARD M. NIXON

Wife, Pat, and daughters Patricia and Julie accompany Nixon in New Hampshire for the presidential primary.

This Week's Picture Show—AP Newsfeatures

When Richard Milhous Nixon lost to California Governor Pat Brown in 1962, he claimed he was finished with politics. Now, six years later, he is back on the political trail and one of the front-runners for his party's presidential nomination.

He was born January 9, 1913, of Quaker parents, in Yorba Linda, California.

On scholarship to Duke University Law School, he finished in the upper ten per cent of his class. After graduation, he returned to Whittier, Calif., to practice law. There he met Thelma Catherine "Pat" Ryan, a high school teacher, and in 1940 they were married. They have two daughters, Patricia and Julie.

By 1942, Nixon was in Washington with the Office of Emergency Management. Commissioned a Navy Lt. (j.g.), he served in the South Pacific for two years.

In 1946, friends suggested he become Republican candidate in California for the House of Representatives. Resigning from the service, he spent $4,000 saved from his Navy pay to campaign, winning by over 15,000 votes. Two years later he was re-elected.

At 33, as a freshman representative, he gained national attention for his anti-communist efforts with the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

In 1950, Nixon won a U.S. Senate seat and, two years later, ran for vice-president on the Republican ticket with Dwight D. Eisenhower.

After taking office, Nixon changed the relative obscurity of the vice presidency to one of active participation in government. In 1955, he assumed presidential duties when Eisenhower suffered a heart attack.

As Republican candidate for president in 1960, Nixon faced and lost to Senator John F. Kennedy.

In 1962, having returned to California to practice law, Nixon campaigned for governor, losing to incumbent Pat Brown.

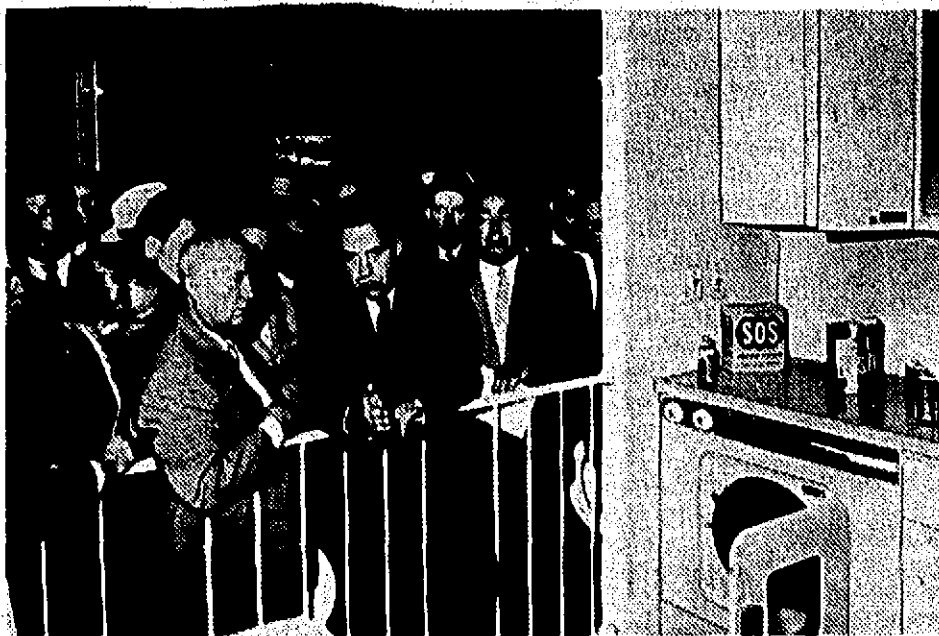

He then moved to New York City, where he continued his political activity. Now he is on the campaign trail once more, seeking the nomination to carry the presidential banner again.

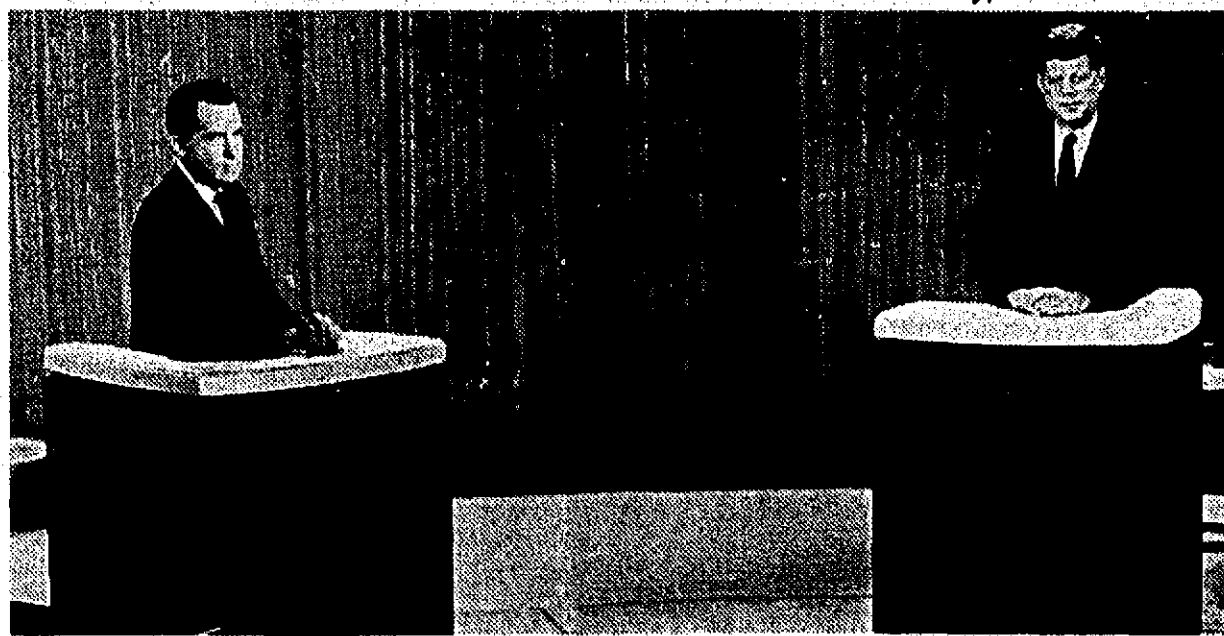

As Lieutenant Commander in the Navy, World War II.

During his 1950 Senate race, Nixon talks with Port Hueneme, Calif., citizens.

As vice president, Nixon squared off with Russian Premier Khrushchev during the 1959 "kitchen" debate in Moscow.

During the 1960 campaign, Nixon participates in one of four debates with John F. Kennedy.

Vice president's car came under attack by Caracas, Venezuela, demonstrators in 1958.

Nixon takes oath of office as vice president at capitol ceremony, Jan. 20, 1953.

Nixon admits defeat in his 1962 attempt to win the California governorship.

HELEN HELP US!

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper. OVERCAUTIOUS, OR OVERKIND?

Dear Helen: I am 16, and have had one problem since I started dating girls. I find I am too cautious when I end a relationship. For instance, I kept on going steady with a girl six months after I stopped liking her, because I was unsure about what might happen next.

I've never been the one to break off, no matter how much I wanted to; I was afraid I might not find another girl and would be left out in the cold. This is silly, because when a girl dumps me I've usually done better afterwards.

Is it normal to be this over-cautious?—DENNIS

Dear Dennis: It's normal to avoid hurting people, if you're a nice guy. Pull out of the "steady" system, and you won't be troubled with overcautiousness. When a boy dates several girls, he doesn't feel tied to one and he can boot her out of his life without calling himself a heel.—H.

Dear Helen: You mentioned about brothers and sisters borrowing each other's clothes. Well, my brother even borrows my hair spray and powder base! I kept wondering why they disappeared so fast, until I caught him.

He doesn't seem like the type, but do you suppose he's got a problem?—JUNE

Dear June: I doubt it. He probably can't afford men's hair spray and figures powder base might double for acne lotion. Why not suggest he pay you back with the loan of his turtle-neck sweater?—H.

Dear Helen: I am a match lighter!

It isn't funny. I light matches at the bus stop, I even light them in school. I've had to stay after class four times because teachers caught me lighting matches in class.

My parents accuse me of smoking because they find so many burned matches in my wastebasket. My allowance money goes low because I'm forever buying matches.

Can you get hooked on lighting matches the same way people get hooked on cigarettes? I think I am.—FIRED UP

Dear F.U.: You can get hooked on anything, if you give in to the urge. Most kids outgrow match-lighting before kindergarten, often with "stern" parental help. It strikes me your folks haven't been tough enough, so get tough with yourself. Buy five big boxes of matches, sit down and light every one of them without stopping. If this doesn't scratch the habit—you need professional help.—H.

Dear Helen: We are a group of girls who wish freedom bells would ring for us. This very conceited girl hangs around us. All she talks about is herself, her wonderful clothes, her fabulous boy friends, her good grades; she's a big bore. Why us?

We had a slumber party last week and didn't invite her. Her mother called up during the party and asked why. Then she called two more mothers and raised the roof because her little girl was left out. She's a horn-tooter too. She's back trailing us again. How can we ditch her tactfully?—PRISONERS OF WAR

Dear P.O.W.: The truth is far from tactful, but this girl and her mother need it. Tell them the usual reaction to horn-tooters is—"Go blow!"—H.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - The name is the same but the music has been changed to give it a rocking beat.

The musical madness of the late Spike Jones has been passed on to his namesake son, a self-assured 19-year-old who hopes to cater to today's diverse musical tastes.

"Naturally I get compared to my dad," says Spike Jr., "but I'm obviously not like him

When an ordinary bridge player makes a mistake, he makes a mistake. When an expert makes a mistake, he is just as guilty but he is likely to call it an error of judgment or to excuse it by saying, "I took a position."

Frequently that is just what the expert has done. He has deliberately violated some rule or principle of bidding or play because he feels that his partner has made a mistake and he, the expert, wants to correct it.

South's six heart bid shows one of these expert gambles. South had really bid his full strength when he jumped to three hearts and then went on to four hearts when his partner was doubled at three spades.

There was nothing wrong with North's four no-trump bid. He could expect a spade lead against any heart contract and at worst a heart finesse. Then, when expert South showed only one ace in response to four no-trump, North became scared and bid only five hearts.

This was a bad bidding error. It is inexcusable to use Blackwood and then stop short of a slam when your side holds three aces. In other words if you aren't sure that you want to be in a three-ace slam you don't use Blackwood.

It is even more inexcusable

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: I had 20 teeth extracted in the hospital under anesthesia and since then my mouth dries out at night. I thought it would help when I got my dentures but it hasn't.

ANSWER: First it must be said that it's unlikely that extractions or anesthesia could have caused your dry mouth. At this time of year, a more likely cause would be low humidity in your house due to a heating system that dries the air. This is especially so if your house is heated with hot air heat.

Reds Figure to Be Factor in Pennant

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — If Dave Bristol wanted to be an all-time great, he could have claimed the pennant in the Blue Cross League last season. The Cincinnati Reds had so many hospital cases they almost bought their own ambulance.

On June 18 when the club finally fell out of first place, Bristol had only 17 active players. "That's all ancient history," said the scrappy skipper of the Reds, at 33 the youngest manager in the majors. "Let's not shed any tears about what happened last year. The Green Bay Packers lose guys and go ahead and win it anyhow."

Just for the record, it should be noted that Leo Cardenas, Pete Rose, Tommy Helms, Jim Maloney, Deron Johnson, Bill McCool, Deron Johnson, Tommy Harper and Ted Abernathy all spent time on the injured list. The injuries usually came in pairs. The loss of Cardenas, the all-important regular shortstop, for 54 games with a broken left hand was the blow that hurt most.

Despite the series of misfortunes that forced Bristol to juggle his infield, outfield and pitching staff, the Reds finished 12 games over .500 at 87-75 and were fourth, only four games out of second and 1 1/2 back of the Cardinals.

No club in baseball made as many player changes as the Reds during the winter as General Manager Bob Howsam shuffled the roster and shook up the front office.

Deron Johnson went to Atlanta, Art Shamsky to the New York Mets, Tommy Harper to Cleveland, Floyd Robinson and Darrell Osteen to Oakland, Sammy Ellis to the California Angels and Johnny Edwards to St. Louis.

In return, the Reds got Mack Jones and Jim Beauchamp from the Braves, Bob Johnson from the Mets, Fred Whitfield and George Culver from the Indians, Ron Tompkins from the A's, Bill Kelso and Jorge Rubio from the Angels and Pat Corrales and Jimmy Williams from the Cards.

The most important rookie in the Reds' camp is Johnny Bench, a 20-year-old catcher who hit 23 home runs but batted only .259 for Buffalo last season. "Bench looks like a real good kid," said Bristol. "He has the hands, the strong arm and knows how to handle pitchers."

Bench had moved into the No. 1 job before Edwards was traded to the Cards. If he comes through as expected, Don Pavletich will be his backup man.

The infield is set with Lee May, a fine 1967 rookie, at first base, Helms at second, Cardenas at short and Tony Perez, the All-Star game home run hero, at third base. Perez led the Reds with 26 homers and 102 runs batted in last year.

The hottest hitter of the spring has been Beauchamp, still on a minor league roster but apparently recovered from his old shoulder trouble.

"We were predominantly a right-handed hitting club," said Bristol. "That was the reason for some of our deals. Now we have added left-handed hitters like Jones, Whitfield and Raudman. Kelso, Culver and Tompkins give us more depth to our pitching staff."

"The four regulars will be Jim Maloney (15-11), Milt Pappas (18-13), Mel Queen (14-8) and Gary Nolan (14-8). The fifth starter will come from Billy McCool (3-7), Gerry Arrigo (6-6), Culver (7-3 with Cleveland), Tompkins (10-9 at Vancouver) and John Tsitouris (17-7 at San Diego)."

The four starters are right-handers so Bristol would like to come up with a southpaw for No. 5. That would mean McCool, a reformer relief man, or Arrigo.

Ted Abernathy (6-3), the submarine ball-throwing veteran, is the bullpen ace. Kelso (5-3 with the Angels) should ease his burden. Abernathy was in 70 games although he missed time due to an injury in May.

U.S. Needs Negro Athletes To Uphold Gold Standards

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — How would the United States team fare if the organized boycott by the Olympic Project for Human Rights is successful. The boycott, led by Harry Edwards, sociology instructor at San Jose (Calif.) State College, is an attempt to persuade American Negro athletes not to participate in the games. The reason, according to Edwards, is to draw world attention to the unequal treatment by the "white society" of black Americans.

Sprint star Tommie Smith, one of the boycotters, said, "I'm not only willing to give up participating in Mexico City, but I'd give up my life if necessary to reduce bigotry."

In the 1964 Games in Tokyo, America won 30 gold medals (compared to 36 for the U.S.S.R., which topped all other nations). Negro Americans won six gold medals individually, and figured prominently in capturing three others.

Five of those individual medals were won in track and field events, the other went to Joe Frazier, the only American to get a medal of any sort in boxing. Also, three of the four members of the championship 400-meter relay team were Negro and two members of the 1,600-meter team were black. The gold-medal winning U.S. basketball team had five Negroes on its 12-man squad.

"Since the trials for 1968 haven't been held yet," said Payton Jordan, Olympic track coach, "we really don't know who will be on the team. So it is difficult to project how the squad will be affected if the Negro boycott is successful."

Going on recent past performances, projection becomes less difficult. Just check the charts and one sees that in track and field, especially the sprints, the U.S. men's team would be grievously hurt without its Negroes.

In the 100-meter dash, won in the last Olympics in record time (10.0) by U.S. Negro Bob Hayes, America's prospects now are all black: Willie Turner, Jim Hines, Charlie Greene, Tommie Smith and John Carlos. These performers are also rated tops in the 200-meter dash. Each appears sympathetic to the boycott.

The superiority of Negroes surely be lost—the 100-, 200- and 400-meter dashes, the 100- and 1,600-meter relays, the jump and high jump—and three others would have diminished chances — the 110-meter hurdles, the triple jump and the intermediate hurdles. And in some of those events, it would be the Russians who would benefit most.

Female Boycott Unlikely

Dr. Nel Jackson, a Negro who heads the National AAU track and field for women, said there is no threat of black women boycotting the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City.

"All of the girls that I've talked with," said Dr. Jackson, "said they would compete."

In the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo, American colored women won two gold medals

Outdoor Notebook

NEW YORK — (NEA) — In the bigger picture, the 20th century falls somewhere in the springtime of an interglacial. This means that the earth slowly is emerging from an Ice Age and sliding gently in a very long, hot summer.

We've known for quite a few decades now that an awful lot of North American wildlife went down the drain during the last glaciation. In a recent issue of "Natural History," Dr. Paul Martin of the University of Arizona contended that more than a hundred species of big game disappeared from this continent. The casualty list included mammoths, mastodons, camels, shrub oxen, horses, and many others.

The important thing, says Martin, is the possibility that man, not ice, was responsible.

As remote in time as this may seem, it has direct bearing on modern man and his role as a hunter.

According to John Madson of Olin's Conservation Department, the great overkill did not stop with the Pleistocene; but continued throughout the intervening 10,000 years—right into this century. We came close to wiping out the remaining big game.

Today, there are 42 rare and endangered mammals in this hemisphere, and 110 species of rare and endangered birds. Is man, the hunter, responsible?

Yes and no. A few decades ago, the hunter was almost entirely responsible for endangering species through indiscriminate killing. But today, the endangered mammals, about 30 are hunted for some reason, says Madson.

About 19 are hunted commercially (whales and seals) or because they are a threat to man's interest (foxes and grizzlies). Only 10 are of interest to sportsmen and these are rare types of big horn sheep, dwarf elk, etc., and they seldom, if ever, are hunted today.

But, of the endangered birds, only 20 can be classified as game birds, and they are carefully protected.

Environmental change, says Madson, is the greatest threat.

From a long-range perspective it appears that chances for seven gold medals would

Peppy's Hair-Piece

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (NEA) — Underneath the baseball cap of Joe Pepitone lies a full head of new hair. The Yankee flake wears his convertible coiffure on the field, too. "He better stay out of fights," mused skipper Ralph Houk. "That's the first thing I'd go for yank that hairpiece right off him."

Long sideburns and the windblown have become so de rigueur that Frank Howard of the Senators looks like a man from a by-gone era when he shows up in a spiffy crewcut.

When Tom Weiskopf, the new leading money winner on the golf tour, notes the influence of Jack Nicklaus on his early career (they both went to Ohio State), he doesn't note that one of his early Buckeye chores was caddyfing for the Golden Bear.

Tom took a tip from Nicklaus to straighten out his game. He's measuring his distances on the course to discipline himself on each shot, in contrast to his old jaunty attitude when he'd just step up and whack the ball with the first club that came to mind.

To Hank Bauer, Don Buford, his new acquisition from the White Sox, is the kind of player fitted to the needs of modern baseball.

Buford can play five positions—all three in the outfield, second and third in the infield—with major league ability. "Gives you flexibility," says the Oriole manager, "because you're carrying bigger pitching staffs now and cutting down on your bench strength."

Training camp is a time for story telling. The Cardinals were remembering the time Alvin Dark created a national stir by insinuating that Negro players didn't function as well in clutch situations. Bill White was playing first base for St. Louis at the time. There were men on first and second when a hunt was scooped up by White. He started to throw to third to cut off the lead runner, but it was too late. He turned to second, but the runner there was already sliding in. By this time, he no longer had a play at first either, so the bases were loaded. Bill held the ball, looked down at it and chided himself. "You know, Dark might have had something."

In the same ethnic vein, Curt Blefary of the Orioles, who generally had big days against the Yankees, drew the collar one afternoon with Al Downing on the mound. Elston Howard behind the plate and Emmett Ashford as the umpire. "Fat chance I had," sputtered Blefary, "with a soul brother pitching, a soul brother catching and a soul brother calling 'em.'"

Frank Robinson, sitting next to him, spoke up softly. "Now you know how it is for us in those other games."

Alan Alda, the actor who's making like a quarterback for "The Paper Lion," filming at Boca Raton, got a taste of what the real thing must be like in one scrimmage sequence. The play called for Alda to run up the middle, with guard Chuck Walton blocking out linebacker Mike Lucci. The two Detroit Lion regulars got together and decided to "open the gates" on Alda for a gag. As Alda tucked the ball under his arm, Walton stepped aside. And there came Lucci, 230 pounds, barreling at him under a full head of steam. "I could see his eyes go all white," grinned Mike.

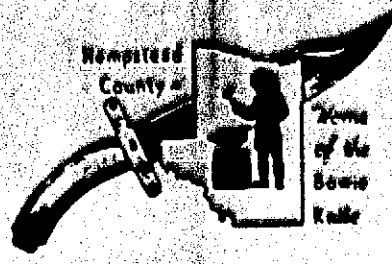

Between you'n me, coach Joe Schmidt of the Lions still expects to get quarterback Jim Ninowski (Redskins) or a reasonable facsimile thereof in a trade, or the Lions may deal themselves out of a coach because it's definite he's not going to go with the holdover brace of quarterbacks.

For All Newcomers to Hope There's a Club That Will Welcome You

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer
We hear the phrase, "What's new?", numerous times, but do you ever ask, "Who's new?" Probably not. But there's one group in town that does. It's called the Newcomers Club.

Organized less than a year ago, this newest club in town was the idea of Mrs. Charles Carey, who originally hailed from Cincinnati, Ohio. While she realized that Hope is not what is generally regarded as a "melting pot" of people, there is someone moving in and out of our community all the time.

The first meeting of the Newcomers Club was held last April with 30 charter members. Since then, one-third of the original group has moved away, but to give you an idea of the large turnover in membership, in September there were 25 who paid the yearly dues of $3. The average monthly attendance is 15.

The Newcomers Club is not affiliated with any other group, and the women in the club range in age from new brides to grandmothers. Their chief desire is to get acquainted with one another, for each one realizes that to get a friend one must be a friend.

Though the members enjoy the fellowship of the club, they also want to be of use to their newly adopted home, Hope, Arkansas. For that reason the group has offered to be of assistance in the Mental Retardation work that is currently being planned for our community.

No one ever wants to "skip a meeting," for there is something new and exciting every month. The club year begins in September and closes with a picnic in June. During the vacation months of July and August, no meetings are held.

Husbands are invited to the meetings twice a year—the June Picnic and the Christmas Party. The rest of the time programs are geared to be of interest to Girls Only. The one exception to this was a presentation of information regarding the Mental Retardation Program of Assistance.

Some of the interesting programs have included a demonstration of Paper Art by an Extension Home Economist, a White Elephant exchange among members, and a Wig and Hair Style Show. The latter was held just this week, and flower arranging will be demonstrated later.

Drinks Bill Needed, Says WR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Thursday that Arkansas could collect upwards of $4 million a year in revenue by legalizing the sale of mixed drinks and that a mixed drink law should be one of the long range goals in the state.

Rockefeller said, however, that if mixed drinks were not legalized the "whole thing" should be closed down.

"It's ridiculous that the state of Arkansas is not collecting the revenue, not even by licensing establishments which under the private club laws are dispensing liquor by the drink," the governor said.

Rockefeller said a mixed drink bill was needed but added that did not mean it would be included in his special session call planned for early May.

He said he had no intention of "being jockeyed into a position which is strictly political."

"Some of the wiser political heads would say it would be suicide for somebody" to introduce such legislation at this time, the governor said.

Rockefeller said that if a mixed drink bill were passed during his administration it would have to be written "so clear that enforcement would be without question."

The governor also predicted that there would be a court test if Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell ruled against the dispensing of mixed drinks in private clubs.

He said that if Purcell did rule against the clubs he would "enforce the laws as I said I would in taking the oath of office."

This spring. Officers in the Newcomers Club are: president, Mrs. Carey; vice-president, Mrs. Randall Lelster; secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Robert Dennis; membership chairman, Mrs. Howard Jackson. If you are a newcomer to Hope and you moved here within the last two years, the Newcomers Club is open to you for membership. Interested? Well, call Mrs. Charles Carey, PR7-5672, and she will tell you all about it.

Conference on Gold in Washington

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — America's six allies in the London gold pool converged on Washington today for a two-day conference seeking to solve the gravest global money crisis in 40 years.

As the central bankers assembled, a congressional drive developed to force a greater fiscal austerity on this country—and thus to generate, it was hoped, greater confidence in the dollar.

The plan calls for not only the deflationary 10 per cent tax surcharge asked by President Johnson, but a multibillion-dollar slash in Johnson's fiscal 1969 spending budget—a cut imposed on him by act of Congress.

That congressional move reportedly had the approval of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., the potent chairman of the House Ways and Means committee.

Mills has admitted nothing publicly but is known to have conferred at length with Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee. Mahon favors the double-edged plan.

But it remained to be seen whether those moves, buttressing the secret seven-power talks in the mausoleum-like Federal Reserve Board building, would dissuade profit-hungry gold speculators from resuming next week their frantic assault on the dollar in the world's gold markets.

The crisis was generally regarded as the most severe since the stock market collapse of 1929.

Airtight security was assured for the weekend conference of the central bankers of the United States, Britain, Belgium, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands and Switzerland.

The session was to start at 1 p.m. luncheon. The only communiqué, a board spokesman said, will be issued at the meeting's close sometime Sunday afternoon.

U.S. officials exuded calm confidence, meanwhile, that the nation's gold reserves will outlast the nerve and the resources of the gold hoarders who, for a frenzied fortnight, have been demanding gold for dollars—and hoping to enrich themselves by breaking down the dollar, key-stone currency of the free world.

Mite Early to Write Off Mr. Johnson

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It could be a mite early to start writing off Lyndon Johnson as President even though headlines in the wake of the New Hampshire primary shrieked of "vulnerability" and "d-leat."

For one thing: It's a little hard to see how anybody can lose an election when he isn't on the ballot, especially when he comes up with 48 per cent of the vote on a write-in basis—as Johnson did.

But this is even more important: When the man involved is president of the United States he has big advantages built into a big power base that comes with the office. And he can use them to the hilt in primary and general election campaigns.

Kennedy Announces Candidacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York plunged into the Democratic presidential nomination contest today as a second peace candidate opposing President Johnson's renomination.

Kennedy's announcement of his candidacy pits him against a fellow Roman Catholic and Vietnam war critic, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, in the uphill battle with Johnson for delegate votes at the party's August convention in Chicago.

Johnson has not yet said he plans to seek a second elective term. But Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey have said repeatedly the President will be the nominee again.

Kennedy's belated announcement, made at a televised news conference, came after McCarthy had run a strong race against a Johnson write-in in last Tuesday's New Hampshire primary.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy charged into the contest today to wrest the Democratic presidential nomination from President Johnson, saying the country is on "a perilous course."

The New York senator's entry into the race at a crowded televised news conference pits him against a fellow Roman Catholic and Vietnam war critic, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

Kennedy said his entry against Johnson, the man chosen by his assassinated brother, was not in opposition to the individual but to his policies.

But he added the only way to change the "disastrous, divisive" policies of the Johnson administration is to oppose the man himself.

Kennedy said he will enter his name in the June 2 California primary, and also those in Oregon May 28 and Nebraska May 17 because the laws of those states require that his name go on the ballot.

He stated at the same time he intends to "both support and expand his (McCarthy's) valiant campaign." He called for the biggest possible majorities for McCarthy in primaries next month in Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

Kennedy said he made clear to McCarthy that "my candidacy would not be in opposition to his, but in harmony."

"My desire is not to divide the strength of those forces seeking a change, but to increase," the New Yorker senator said.

"Finally, my decision reflects no personal animosity or disrespect toward President Johnson. He served President Kennedy with the upmost loyalty and was extremely kind to me and members of my family in the difficult months which followed the events of November 1963."

"I run because I am convinced that this country is on a perilous course and because I have such strong feelings about what must be done that I am obliged to do all I can," Kennedy said.

"I do not lightly dismiss the dangers and difficulties of challenging an incumbent president," he added in his formal announcement before a national television audience from the old Senate Office Building Caucus Room.

Ozark Pilot Helped Plane

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — With 34 passengers watching, an Ozark Air Lines pilot played nurse maid to a single-engine plane that was low on fuel and helped it land Thursday night in a plowed field near Bloomington, in central Illinois.

Capt. Earl Campbell of St. Charles, Mo., pilot of the twin-engine Ozark plane, responded to radio calls for help and guided the unidentified pilot of the Piper Cherokee to a plowed field. The light plane which then continued to its scheduled landing at Springfield, Ill.

Some Have It, Some Keep It

It's almost enough to make us burst into tears, right over our typewriter. The Internal Revenue Service reports that only 630 persons filed returns in 1966 showing incomes of $1 million or more, while the total the previous year was 646.

Our sympathy for the 16 who fell below the million-dollar mark knows no bounds. Whoever they may be (maybe one of them was the fellow we gave a quarter for a cup of coffee the other day).

But we're more interested in the IRS's list of 18. That's the number of people who made $1 million yet paid no taxes—and still, presumably, kept within the law. Looks as though Congress could amend the tax laws to bring them into the club. — Knoxville (Tenn.) News-Sentinel

Ouachita Okays Record Budget

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
ARCADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — A record budget of $2,786,603 was approved Thursday by the Board of Trustees of Ouachita Baptist University at its quarterly meeting.

The board also voted to combine the present departments of theory - composition, applied music, church and music education into a School of Music beginning in September.

Everyone Was Confused

WASHINGTON (AP) — A private congressional briefing on Indiana's complex time-zone problem was delayed 30 minutes Thursday because three Transportation Department officials, confused about the meeting's starting time, arrived late.

"Is it only fair to say you didn't know what time it is?" asked Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind.

"Yes sir," said one of the officials. "We don't know what time it is—either here or in Indiana."

Efforts are under way to settle a dispute in Indiana concerning use of Eastern and Central times in different parts of the state.

Sure Not Dead, Like They Said

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) Charles O'Brien went to the police this week and told them he sure wasn't dead like they said he was.

So O'Brien's house was unsealed, his car unimpounded, and his pet dog sprung from the animal shelter. It turned out a man found dead in O'Brien's empty house last week was an itinerant who had a heart attack. O'Brien, 54, was at a rest home at the time.
